administratorsQ: Load ProgressBlocker at startup I'm developing a wpf application. When the application started, I want to show a message (disclaimer) to the user. I want to use ProgressBlocker to do that. I read this article The problem is, I can't set the Application.Resources file as a StaticResource, because the application will be used in French so the resource is different from the default one. If I set the text in the constructor of a Page, the Disclaimer message is not shown. Any idea how to do this correctly? A: You can use the Disclaimer.DisplayName.Localized property to get the Disclaimer message in your app when you are using the French language. This can be set in App.g.resources in your app.xaml file. "@App.Resources.Disclaimer" - addr the addr of slave *
